DECISION SURPRISES THE BAR

tory to appealing to the United States Supreme Court. Justice Hartwell was objected to by Holmes & Stanley, attorneys for defendants in error, on the ground that he had taken part in the case as an attorney, having argued in the circuit court for plaintiffs. The court says in its decision:

"In view of the statute it would seem that a justice has no right to withdraw from, and it is his duty to sit in, a case unless he is disqualified or unable to sit for some other specified reason."

"The principle that a man may not be a judge in his own cause is of universally accepted and cannot be questioned. An alleged disqualification by reason of having been of counsel is of recent origin and created by express constitutional or statutory provisions. As it may exist independently of relationship or pecuniary interest in the result, it was doubtless based upon considerations of supposed bias, partially or prejudice arising from the relationship of attorney and client, which may reasonably be presumed might influence the actions of the judge. Newcome v. Light, 55 Tex. 141. One who is biased, prejudiced or partial should not be a judge, but in the absence of statute, such a person is not disqualified. As the common law did not disqualify for bias, prejudice or partiality, which gave rise to the rule, it follows that at common law there was no such disqualification as that of having been of counsel."

CHIEF JUSTICE FREAR.

In concurring, Justice Hartwell says he would be very glad to be allowed to retire, but that he has not discretion in the matter and cannot retire unless there is a statutory disqualification, after quoting a number of authorities additional to those mentioned in Wilder's opinion, Hartwell finally says: "There is no authority in the Organic for refusing to sit in such cases as this. The act fixes the constitution of the court in all but the cases therein named."

Chief Justice Frear's dissenting opinion is quite a lengthy one, and also contains references to many authorities. Numerous Hawaiian precedents are cited in support of the contention that a justice who has been counsel in a case is considered disqualified to sit in that case. The chief justice concludes his reasoning in the following language:

"The question being one at least of doubt and the statute having been acted on as not exclusive in so many cases both before and since the enactment of the Organic Act, and this construction being one which is highly desirable and which is in conformity with prevailing sentiment elsewhere, as shown by constitutional and statutory provisions as well as by remarks of courts, it seems to me that we should adhere to it."

"There is, it is true, a possibility under this view that in some cases all the members of the court might be disqualified and consequently that such cases could not be heard unless on the theory that a disqualified judge may sit in case of necessity, but that contingency might happen under any other disqualification and would in any event rarely happen. It has not happened so far as I know, during the fifty-nine years covered by our reports. If it should happen occasionally, that would be incomparably better than the alternative that members of the court should sit in all cases in which they have been of counsel—as they would be required to do under our statute. If it is valid, unless both parties consent to a hearing by less than three judges."

The motion to quash was set for argument next Thursday. The suit is a proceeding of William, Charles and David Notley and Maria Hughes to set aside the will of the late Charles Notley, Kinney, McClanahan and Cooper appear for contestants and Holmes & Stanley for the proponents of the will and beneficiaries thereunder.

May Be A Murder

BODY OF A JAPANESE CHILD
FOUND IN THE HARBOR THIS MORNING.

The body of a year-old Japanese child was found floating in the harbor this morning near the dredger Pacific. The body was enclosed in a sack that had been tied up. Inside of the sack were some toys that had evidently belonged to the dead child. The body had been in the water for some days.

It is not thought possible by the police that the child's parents were too poor to afford a funeral so tied a weight to the sack and threw the object into the water. The cord or rope which secured the weight might have become loose and the body rose to the surface. It is also possible that no weight was attached to the body in the first place.

The police are also inclined to the theory that the child may have been the victim of foul play and this feature of the case is being investigated. There is at present no clue to the identity of those who threw the body into the water.

SCHIFF WAS PRESENTED TO THE QUEEN

SCHIFF PARTY WAS RECEIVED BY QUEEN LILUOKALANI TO-DAY AT WASHINGTON PLACE.

"I regard my stay in Honolulu," said Jacob H. Schiff, the multi-millionaire banker, "as the most delightful twenty-four hours that I have ever passed. The beauties of these islands exceed anything that I have imagined."

It was just as he was going aboard the S. S. Manchuria this morning to depart for Japan that the war-maker expressed such a complimentary sentiment about Honolulu. And in his sentiments he voiced the thought of all the others in the party. In fact so delighted was Mrs. Schiff with the stay in these islands that she expressed the desire to return to Honolulu on the homeward trip. Her husband has not determined positively whether the party will return by way of Victoria or else stop at Honolulu once again.

The party was presented to Queen Liliuokalani this morning shortly before going to the Manchuria. It had been hoped to have the presentation yesterday afternoon but the Queen is not receiving now, and it was only after she had been requested by Col. George W. Macfarlane to receive the party that she consented. Col. Macfarlane was the chamberlain for King Kalakaua, her late brother, and it was upon the request of Col. Macfarlane that her consent was given. In fact Mr. Lillenthal of the Anglo-California Bank had specially requested that the party be presented to the Queen. Mr. Schiff and the entire party would have been much disappointed if they had not had the opportunity of seeing the former ruler of Hawaii.

The presentation occurred this morning at Washington Place. The Queen was assisted in receiving by Prince David Kawanakoa and Princess Kaulanaloa, the wife of the delegate. The interview lasted about twenty minutes. The party was delighted with the reception given them by the Queen. As the party was leaving the Queen placed leis upon each of her visitors and to the ladies in the party she gave gold souvenirs in the shape of Hawaiian coats-of-arms. From the Queen's place the party drove to the steamer.

During the morning the party passed most of the time driving about the city making purchases of souvenirs. Yesterday was Mr. Neustad's birthday and he received a large number of cablegrams of congratulations from his grandchildren and other relatives. One of his grandchildren wanted him to purchase her some calabashes, another ordered by cable some strings of leis, another demanded some stamps, so the party was kept busy buying souvenirs of the visit to the Hawaiian Islands.

This morning Mr. Schiff had a cablegram sent to New York telling his relatives of the delightful visit he and his party had had in Honolulu and thanking Col. Macfarlane for the pleasant entertainment that he had provided. Col. Macfarlane, who made the trip to Honolulu with the party at the request of Mr. Lillenthal, will return to San Francisco by the first steamer.

Last night the party was delightfully entertained about the city. A dinner was given them at the Hawaiian Hotel by Col. Macfarlane. In addition to the Schiff party Acting Governor Atkinson and J. F. Hackfeld were present. After the affair at the hotel the party went to the Mochizuki Club at Waikiki where they were the guests of the Japanese community, many leading members of which were present to greet the distinguished banker and party. There was music by Hawaiian singing boys and a serenade by the band. Then came dancing by pretty geisha girls.

PREPARED FOR AN APPEAL

FINAL JUDGMENT OF THE SUPREME COURT IN AN EJECTMENT SUIT.

Another case which in which an appeal to Washington is in preparation was formally decided by the Supreme court. It is the ejectment suit of Annie Keolaha and Keoni Williams vs. W. R. Castle trustee, and a final ruling to pave the way for the appeal, was given in the language of Justice Hartwell, as follows:

"All the matters presented in the assignment of errors were passed upon by this court, ante p. 45, on the question reserved by the circuit judge, whether the defendant's demurrer should be sustained. The circuit judge having been advised by us that the demurrer ought to be sustained a decree was made by him accordingly, to which the plaintiffs bring this writ of error in order to obtain the final judgment of this court, which is that the decree is affirmed."

Smith & Lewis and T. M. Harrison appeared for plaintiffs in error, Castle & Withington and A. G. M. Robertson for defendant in error.

MANCHURIA TOOK LARGE CROWD OF TOURISTS TO JAPAN FOR THE CHERRY BLOSSOM SEASON.

The departure of a big liner for the Orient is always an event now. Each time recently that the Mongolia and Manchuria have left this port for the Orient a large crowd has departed on them from Honolulu. Most of those departing are tourists who have stopped over at Honolulu for a visit. The departure of the Manchuria this morning was no exception to the rule and almost as many people left by her as formerly used to depart for the mainland. Practically all of those who left are bound for Japan to attend the cherry blossom season.

There was a very large crowd at the Hackfeld wharf this morning to see the boat depart. The sailing of the Manchuria had special interest to the Hawaiians for a popular young couple was leaving for Shanghai, Mr. and Mrs. W. Heen, nee Miss Notley. Both of the young people were covered with leis by their friends and relatives many of whom were at the vessel to say aloha. Heen is to engage in the practice of law at Shanghai and with his bride, is leaving Honolulu for their new home. There was an eager demand for leis from the young people.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Chapin who have resided at the Moana Hotel for several months departed for Japan by the vessel.

Mrs. Dr. Grinnell of Chicago was also a departing passenger. She stopped in Honolulu a short time.

Yee Chan the well known Chinese merchant departed with his family for a brief visit to China.

Prof. W. E. Ritter who has been visiting these islands for some months, departed for the Orient accompanied by his wife.

There was great curiosity to see the members of the Schiff party. They did not board the steamer until a few minutes before she sailed. The band was at the wharf and played the vessel away.
